ABSTRACT

This booklet is presented as a guide for students undertaking oral history projects for a class assignment. The students were to search for people attending one-room schools or other early schools in Bartholomew County Indiana from the late 1800s to the 1950s. The suggestions given in the booklet are to help in developing questions and presenting the gathered materials. Sections of the booklet include: (1) Purpose; (2) "Where Do I Begin?"; (3) "How Do I Prepared for an Interview?"; (4) "What Do I Take to the Interview?"; (5) "How Do I Conduct the Interview?"; (6) "Interview Information Sheet"; (7) "What Questions Do I Ask?"; (8) "Sample Thank You and Follow Up"; (9) "Great Interview!"; and (10)"What Went Wrong?" Foreword

This booklet is presented with the permission of its original publisher, Southside Elementary School, Bartholomew Consolidated School Corporation, for distribution by the Indiana Historical Bureau. Copies are being provided free to all public libraries in the State of Indiana and to schools which contain chapters of the Indiana Junior Historical Society.

It is available for purchase in single and bulk copies; please inquire about pricing from the Bureau office, 140 North Senate Avenue, Indianapolis, IN 46204-2296, telephone, 317-232-2535.

Yesterday's Schools (1987) was the result of this first effort at school history in Bartholomew County by sixth graders at Southside Elementary School, Columbus. The publication includes historical information about thirty-seven one room schools— twenty-five in six townships of Bartholomew County, eight in other counties of Indiana, and four in other states. The publication lists forty-one persons interviewed. The project took approximately seven months to complete. The principal was Larry Harden. The supervising teachers were Mr. Ross Wallace, Mrs. Janice Montgomery, and Mr. Chuck Grimes.

PURPOSE

As students in the "Old Schoolhouse Gang" you will be striving to collect interviews and information from community members who attended early schools in Bartholomew County. This information will be written in such a way as to create a booklet called Yesterday's Schools. This booklet is an effort to preserve local history in Bartholomew County. As a member of this group you will become a published author in your own community.

Compiled by Janice Montgomery, Southside School,
Bartholomew Consolidated School Corporation

WHERE DO I BEGIN?

You are searching for people who attended one-room schools or other early schools in Bartholomew County. The years might span from the late 1800's to the 1950's. You might meet community members whose parents or grandparents attended such a school. Your role will be that of the interviewer. The person you ask questions will be the interviewee. Below are some suggestions for locating possible interviewees.

Inquire Among:
-Members of your own family
-Friends of your parents, aunts, uncles, grandparents
-Neighbors
-Church friends or ministers
-Senior Citizen groups
-Nursing home residents
-Retirement center residents
-Retired Teachers Association members
-People at neighborhood gatherings or reunions
-Members of various community organizations
*There will also be a starter list available at school.

HOW DO I PREPARE FOR AN INTERVIEW?

Remember you will probably have only one opportunity to interview each person, so it is important to plan ahead. Your interview should be an enjoyable and rewarding experience for everyone involved. Your careful planning is the key to a successful interview.

1. Select someone to contact.
2. Plan for transportation to the interview before making contact with the interviewee/narrator. Be ready with suggested times that you have available.
3. Write out your phone presentation.
   -State your name, school, and sponsor's name
   -Describe the purpose of the project
   -Tell of the plans for the finished product
4. Phone the contact person with your paper, pencil, and calendar ready.
5. Before ending your phone conversation, restate the place, date, and time of the scheduled interview to avoid any confusion.

Phone Etiquette

After gaining permission for use of the phone, use the following tips.

1. Identify yourself and the project.
2. Speak clearly.
3. Call at an appropriate time. (After 9:00 A.M. and before 7:30 P.M. on weekdays and Saturdays.)
4. Be courteous (even if you are not granted an interview!)
5. Restate and clarify meeting times.

WHAT DO I TAKE TO THE INTERVIEW?

The actual interview is the basis of your future story. It is critical that you get the details correct to provide an accurate account of the narrator's history. You will need to be prepared to guide the person in conversation about the selected topic. While specific questions should be written, you should not be afraid to deviate into other areas that relate to the topic.

Remember to take:

1. Prepared questions, notepaper, and the "Interview Information Sheet."
2. Two pens or pencils.
3. Tape recorder, extension cord, and two cassette tapes.
4. Take a sharp mind that is interested in the project.

You will need to test the tape recorder before you arrive at the interview and retest when everything is ready to begin. The recorder should be within four feet of both the interviewee's chair and your position. Maintain good eye contact with the person you are questioning. Be sure to ask for clarification of words you cannot understand and spellings of unfamiliar terms and names. It is important to begin the tape by stating the name of the interviewee and the date of the interview for future reference. You may also state your name and the location of the meeting.

HOW DO I CONDUCT THE INTERVIEW?

Your actions and conduct will leave a long lasting impression on the person sharing his/her experiences with you. To show how well you are prepared, follow these directions.

1. Arrive on time for your interview.
2. Introduce yourself and restate your purpose for the interview.
3. Set up your equipment and test it. (Avoid being near a noisy fan or appliance if possible.)
4. Ask questions that require feelings as well as facts.
5. Be patient and listen.
6. Ask for photos, letters, or other school memorabilia that could be reproduced for use in the book. (Log this on to your interview sheet. Leave your name and school phone number with the narrator.)
7. Thank the person whom you interviewed.

WHAT QUESTIONS DO I ASK?

The narrator or person you interview will probably have a great deal to tell you, but needs to be guided by good questions that relate to the information sought. Below you will find sample questions. Please adapt and add to them ones you feel would help accomplish the goal of researching early schools.

When and where were you born?
How old are you now?
How long has your family lived in Bartholomew County?
Where did you live as a child?
What school/schools did you attend in Bartholomew County?
In what township was each school located?
Is your school still standing?
For what is the school used today?
When was the school destroyed? How?
What activities do you remember about school life?
What were your favorite activities? Why?
What effect did school life have on your daily life as a child?
What customs were practiced for holidays at school?
How was the classroom decorated?
How many children attended your school?
Were there many family members in your school?
Did you pay a book fee? Was there any charge for attending school?
What books do you remember using?
What did you bring for your lunch?
How did the teachers respond toward the students?
How did the teachers teach so many children in different grades?
What did your family do for a living? Did that affect your school life? If so, how?
What were afterschool activities?

What subjects were taught? What did you like the most? Why?

How did you get to school?

What was the role/job of the trustee? Do you remember anyone who was a trustee when you were in school?

How did the Depression or World Wars affect your school life?

How do you think schools have changed since your schooldays?

What books do you remember reading as a child? What was your favorite? Why?

What are your fondest memories of school?
